New York, Dec. 21.-Dr. Frederic' A. Cook, whose mysterious disappearance from the Gramatan Inn., Bronxvillo, on November 24, caused P ensation, is in Europe. This positive announcement is made by Wiiilam L. Cooke, of No. 747 Bedford avenue Brooklyn, who received a letter from hls brother Monday.

Without adopting a disguise, Dr. Cook left New York on the Coronla of the Cunard Lire, on Saturday, No vember 27, and arrived in Naples on December 11, two days after the aftidavits of George H. Dunkle, an ingurance agent, and Captain August W. Loose, a navigator, were printed in New York and London.

the first, of January 1910. We have been carrying many subscribers for years without any pay whatever for their subscriptions. No other business enterprise would do this and it is not right that we should longer continue this policy. It has grown to be a custom of country newspapers to continue sending the publication to subscribers until it is ordered stopped or amount delinquent is paid, and subscribers to this class of papers have grown to expect this kind of treatment. Formerly it did not cost so much to publish a country newspaper, but now with the increase in wages and cost of paper and all'the materials which enter into the make up of a modern newspaper, the loss to the publication of only a limited number of delinquent subscriptions takes away all the profit which should be earned by those who make the investment and furnish the hard work necessary to sustain a country newspaper. Besides, the postoffice regulations now prohibit sending of this class of mail to persons who are as much as one year in arrears. We do not expect to make this change without giving through notice to our readers and those of our subscribers who receive the paper through the postoffices of Nuckois, Central City, Paradise, Elizabethtown, Grenville, Lexington, South Carrollton, Bowling Green, Point Pieasant, Linton, Ind., Herrin, Ill., Utica, Livermore, Vanzant, Simmons, Leitchfield, Ceralvo, Wysox, Chicago, Iii., Matanzas, Rochester, Earlington, Select, Borah, can learn by the fabel on their papers and if shown in arrears will take notice that after January 3, 1910, unless renewed by the payment of arrears and one year in advance, hey will be discontinued.

So get your local together and elect one from your local and where your county union meets select one for every fifty members for your county. If your county dosn't meet, let the County President by the assistance of the County Secretary appoint them, let no county or local fail to have a full representation and make this a meeting to be remembered. I wish to say futher that the prospect for Equity is brighter today than ever before. Aa far as I can hear they coming back home to old Equity, I also wish tosay that the very tobacco that was turned down, the one have, so let every body get busy and account. rally for Equity. 1 see Livermore local has received ten new members ut one meeting. Hurrah for Livermore, she knows how to do things, have set January 1st at one o'clock p. m. for pay day, in 1908 we salved thirteen members, 1909 we saved forty even, in 1910 it will be everyhody. As there is some very important business to come before the meet ing I carnestly request a full dole gation from every county in the District. Don't forget the resolution that were passed at our last meeting in regard to live stock that was to be brought up at this meeting. Study over the burley situation, they are doing nothing for us. Woman's Power

Over Man Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly or-mess and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's silments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive apecific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and hesis. gives the best reasons for eating more

In an article published in the Youth's Companion of September 23rd, 1909, Dr. Browne, the great medical authority on foods, says, about brain and muscle building-

There is one kind of food that seems to me of marked value as a food to the brain and to the whole body throughout childhood and adolescence (youth), and that is oatmeal.

Oats are the most nutritious of all the cereals, being richer in fats, organic phosphorus and lecithins."

He says oatmeal is gaining ground with the well-to-do of Great Britain. He speaks of it as the mainstay of the Scottish laborer's diet and says it produces a big-boned, well-developed, mentally energetic race.

Young, It. M.,

His experiments prove that good oatmeal such as Quaker Oats not only furnishes the best food for the human being, but eating it strengthens and enlarges the thyroid gland-this gland is intimately connected with the nourishing processes of the body. In conclusion he says-

"It seems probable therefore that the bulk and brawniness of the Northerners (meaning the Scotch) has been in some measure due to the stimulation of the thyroid gland by catmeal porridge in childhood. The Scotch eat Quaker Oats because it is the best of all oat-

Christmas at Sea

By Admiral Bob Evans

Christmas morning." said Admiral Evans (Fighting Bob), "I thank God that he made three times as much water as land.

"Every old seadog will join me in this. The sea is his home; he loves it as the farmer loves his broad acres. Apart from It he is restless and dissatisfied, but with a voyage ahead of him he is as happy as a clsm at high tide. No true sailor would exchange Christmas at sea for one on shore. It would he like Thanksgiving dinner without the turkey.

"Of all the Christmases spent at sea the one that rises before me most vividly is that of 1865, when the federal army and the gunboat fleet were trying to capture Fort Fisher. The only prescuts we received, and they came fast and furlous, were solld shot and shell from the guns of the encmy. But this didn't destroy our sense of humor. The boys would write on each solld shot or shell before placing It in the gun, 'presented by,' and add the holiday at sea, are guests of the the name of the vessel from which it commanding officer." happened to be fired. Mighty few hurled at the fort that day lacked this Christmas greeting. All the gunners caught the spirit of the grim jest, for the fighting line is no place for serious faces. "Despite the excitement of the flerce combat we managed to have the mastheads of ail the ships trimmed with Christmas green, even though the sallors had to risk their lives in going ashore to got them, and you may be assured the aentiment of the day was not wasted.

'Lnst year Santa Claus followed our fleet of 16 vessels. He anticipated our 12,600-mlie voyage and furnished us in advance with the pick of his best. On hord the supply vessels when we salled from Hampton roads were thousare of packages containing every lm suable Christman gift, from a 7 flask to a smoking jacket, each whi e labeled, 'Don't opon until Ch.

> "Then comes the opening of the . Christmas packages. This is always a gala occasion. Not s man on hoard would dare ignore the instruction any more than he would think of disoheving his superior officer. It has become custom through years of falthful ohservance. Always a hottle of wine is broken in christening these tokens from the loved ones at home.

"If I hadn't been a lieutenant myself wouldn't dare give away official

"Lsst year we practically had two Christmascs. We received our first mail at Trinidsd, West Indies, some tlme Christmas week and delayed Christmas mall reached us at Callao, when the vessels were approaching their own country on the western slde.

"No nation provides more plentifully for the Christmas cheer of its sailors than does Uncle Sam. Each of the battleship crews has a dinner of roast turkey, plum pudding, pumpkin ple and all the trimmings which go with it. The men are served in messes of 20 at 12 a clock and each man is allowed one snifter of grog as an appetizer, in celebration of the ocession.

Christmas Musings.

There are warmer hand-shakings on this night, wrote Alexandor Smith, than during the hypast 12 months. Friend lives in the mind of friend. There is more charlty at this time than at any other. Poverty and scanty clothing, and fireless grates come home to the bosoms of the rich and they give of their abundance. The very redbreast of the woods enjoys his Christmas feast. Good feeling inchrnates itself in plum pudding. The Master's word, "The poor ye have always with you," wear at this time a deep significance. For at least one night on each year over all Christendom there is brotherhood. And good men, sitting amongst their families, or hy a solltary fire ilke me, when they romember the light that shone over the poor clowns huddling on the Bethlehem plnlns 1,800 years ago, the apparition of shining angels overhead, the song, "Peace on earth and goodwill towards men," which for the first he mastroads of the hattleships. fime hallowed the midn ght air-pray for that atrain's fulfi ent, that attle and strife may ver " nation more, that not out 'm . hristm c but the year ro ren, owning one it. u Lea.

EFORE the fading embers of a grate fire, Parrish Morton sat alone. Outside, the snow was falling in nebulous, transcendent beauty, clinging to the coats of merry makers on their way to Christmas eve festivities and swathing 'sll in a filmy scarf of white. Chimes of distant hells proclaiming "Peace on earth, good will to men," distilled their euphony across the glinting night-but Parrish, in the brooding shadows of What dld Christmas eve mesn to him

Of what use were the riches and the spproval of the world? father's breast?

He was searching for color in the hllls when he stumbled upon the scene—the stranded wagon in the foothllls, the mother upon whose face was the pallor of death, the stunned, halfrealizing child with the giorlous golden halr and the lips like twin cherrles. With her last bresth the griefstricken mother told brokeniy of a hushand who had dled en route, of their efforts to make Los Vegas, how the son had gone on ahead for the doctor, and how in despair she had walted and walted his return. That night just as the great, pitliess black-the canyon, the woman died!

How vividly it all came back to Parrish Morton now as he buried his face in his hands before the crackling emhers of the lingering fire? How Verona clung to him in her terror and sobbed for her mother, sobbed for her father and her hrother! Was ever a child so bereft, so desolate?

And he had taken her home with him and placed her in the hands of his enpable housekeeper and 'as time passed and no record of her kin could he found, he had advanced her into his heart-into the most sacred corner of his grent heart-and watched her grow into a heautiful maturity, a full hlown rose of womanhood with eyes llke the depths of qulet brooks and the face of an angel, with red lips ruddler still and tantalizingly sweet?

And then the blow fell! The reallzation that he loved her and that he. her protector, must preserve her against that love, for she was but 17 and he was 33, then-and he had promised her mother out in the New Mexican foothills that he would caro for her and keep her from the pitfalla as hest he could!

Ah, how lonely the place was when he had sent her away to school, to a distant school where he might not have to endure the pain of seeing her often-and how sho had looked into his eyes at parting with the half pleading, half understanding eyes of a young rahhit suddenly met face to face in some leafstrewn hollow in the autumn woods!

He had kissed her in his old, paternal way and her heart aggrieved had sent subtle glances of bewilderment to flash and play within those orhs whose depths he dared not sound!

And to avoid meeting her, he had gone on a distant mission, kept himre!f aloof for two years, while absence "e the heart grow fonder and the re of her thrillied him as tho argers of some sweet .mg the tremulous soliar! And now upon his return, she had written him that she had made plans for Christmas that might detain her at Sussex, but she wished him a very merry Christmas, wished that he might find his heart filled with joy at again being beneath the old roof-tree, wished that this Christmas might be the happiest of all the Christmases he had ever experienced, and lastly assured him that she was sending him a memento of the season, which she hoped he would cherish and love for her sake.

Parrish Morton repeated the words sadly: "For her sake! Ah, for her sake!"

If she but knew what he would dofor her sake, were it possible! But, no, she was not for him. The violet and the cosmos are incongruous, Youth and late summer are not born to trip hand in hand across the fields Elysian into Agapemone.

The hell rang sharply. He heard Phipps' soft tread upon the stairs, and listened. Yes, it was she. There was no mistaking the rippling cadence of that sweet-throated bird of passage. Turning, he pressed a hutton and the room was sparkling with light. At the top of the stair he stood hesitating, striving to gain control of himself. At the foot, she paused, made him a mock "courtesy" and held out her arms:

"Oh, Par., dear old Par., I have hrought you your Christmas present Instead!"

The attitude, the look in her eyes, the irresistible enchantment of her beauty flooded him with impelling power. What dld she mean? Was lt herself she was offering? For a brief moment he stood swaying to the mighty impulse within him. Standing stupified there, he remembered, as she bounded toward him! He must nothe could not-

And then, as he was about to sweep aside all the positiveness of his duty, all the negatives and forhearances and give free impulse to his heart, there came a step hehlnd her. She heard and turning as she was about to enter the yearning haven of his eager arms,

"Oh, pardon me, Mr. Morton, let me introduce Marshall Marriott. He-" Suddenly the stairs went black before him. He realized now! She was hringing him a Christmas surprise, the msn she loved, the-

Somehow he managed to greet the staiwart young fellow with the frank eyes. In a maze of conflicting pain and surprise he dld the duties of a host, and when Verona and her escort had been shown to their rooms to dress, he slipped into the den and cast himself into the great arm chair hefore the pulseless coals of the fire-

"Lost! Lost!" kept ringing in his ears, and with a groan of anguish he once more buried his face in his hands and gave way to a man's grief. In vain he tried to resson with himself that it were hetter so. He should not have expected or, even dsred to think it might have been otherwise. He was too old for her. She was sunshine, he was the somber cloud-hut, oh, how he loved her! And for the moment he had thought she meant to give herself. The misery of It all! The hesrtache of It!

Suddenly, behind him he heard a rustle, the frou-frou of a woman's gown, and over the side of his great chair a warm arm stole softly against hls neck.

"Oh, Par., what is it, dear? What hnve I done? Whst-' Instinctively in the darkness he felt the frightened rabbit look, the appealing gaze. Summoning all his reserve strength, he sald, with scarcely a tremor in his voice:

"Nothing desr, nothing to offend. I am glad-glad-for you, if he is worthy. If-"

"If-lf-he-ls worthy-oh, you goose, I see it all now!" In a fissh she threw her arms about his neck Her face was close to his. How soft and warm and soothing her flesh was! "He—he is my brother, lost that day in the foothills of New Mexico. I-I have just found hlm. I-thought you would be glad-I wanted to surprise you-I-I-don't you want your Christmas present?" in desperation.

With a mighty heart throb he reached shout and drew her to him. Tenderly, tremblingly he clasped his arms about her and as their lips met in a plighting kiss, a tiny fiame springing as from the heart of an ash-covered sapphire, flamed up from the grate and sent the shadows scurrying. Phipps coming to announce dinner, stood transfixed. Then, a broad grln upon his face, he slipped softly away chortling to his inmost self:

"Lawd! Lawd! Dere sure am gwine t' be a weddln' in this yeah house afore another Christmas eve! Yas'lr!

Isn't him a Christmas Day for me an boy an' wife?

Bet the angels left him when they come to sing again in their joyful chorus tellin' of good will to men. Pudgy-wudgy baby just a roly-poly tike
With a way of looking fight straight at you, lovin like
Say! He held my fineer in his little velvet hand
With a grip o' things! But how can you understand if you ain't been through it you can't know just what I mean
Got the greatest Christmas gift a feller ever seen!

The Charm of Christmas 🖘 'By Washington Irving 😂

F all the old festivals that of sheeted snow, we turn for our grati-Christmas awakens the strongest and most heartfelt assoclatlons. There is a tone of solemu and sacred feeling that blends with our conviviality, and lifts the spirit to a state of hallowed and elevated enjoyment. The services of the church about this season are extremely tender and inspiring; they dwell on the heautiful story of the origin of our faith, and the pastoral scenes that accompanied its announcement; they gradually increase in fervor and pathos during the season of Advent, until they break forth in full jubilee on the morning that brought peace and good will to men. I do not know a grander effect of music on the moral feelings than to hear the full choir and the peailing organ performing a Christmas anthem in a cathedral, and filling every part of the vast plle with trlumphant harmony.

It is a beautiful arrangement, also, derived from the days of yore, that this festival, which commemorates the announcement of the religion of peace and lovo, has been made the season for gathering together closer again those bands of kindred hearts, which the cares and pleasures and sorrows of the world are contluually operating to cast loose; of calling back the children of a family, who have lnunched forth in life and wandered wldely asunder, once more to assemble shout the paternal hearth—that rallying place of the affectious, there to grow young and loving again among mementos of childhood.

There la something in the very season of the year that gives a charm to the festivity of Christmas. At other times we derive a great portion of our pleasures from the mere beauties of nature. Our feelings sally forth and dissipate themselves over the sunny ing fragrance of spring, the soft we revel in the luxury of mere schancharm and wrapped in her shroud of thristman, fications to moral sources. The drearlness and desolation of our landscape; the short, gloomy days and darksome nights, while they circumscribe our wanderings, shut in our feelings also from rambling abroad, and make use more keenly disposed for the pleasures of the social circle. Our thoughts are more concentrated; our friendly; sympathies more sroused. We feel more sensibly the charm of each other's soclety, and are brought more clossly together by dependence on each other for enjoyment. A season when heart eailing unto heart.

The pitchy gloom without makes the heart dilate on entering the room filled with the glow and warmth of the evening fire. The ruddy blaze diffuses an artificial summer and sunshine through the room, and light up each countenance with a kindlier welcome. Where does the honest face of hospitallty expand into a broader and more cordial smlle-where is the shy glance of love more sweetly eloquent—than by the winter firealde? And, as the hollow blast of wintry wind rushes through the hall, clasps the distant door, whistles about the easement, and rumhles down the chimney, what can be more grateful than that feeling of soher and sheltered security with which we look around upon the comfortable chamber and the scene of domestic hilarity?

Amldst the general call to happinesa, the hustle of the apirits, and tir of the affections, which prevail at tis period, what bosom can remain lasersible? It is, indeed, the season of regulerater feeling-the season for kindling not merely the fire of hospitaller in the hall, but the genial flame, of charity hi the heart.

Surely happiness la reflective, like the light of heaven; and every counter landscape, and we "live abroad and nance, bright with smlies and gloweverywhere." The song of the bird. ing with innocent enjoyment, is a mirthe murmur of the stream, the breath- for tre smitting to others the rays of a supreme and ever-shining beng voluptuousness of summer, the gold-lence. He who can turn churlls en pomp of autumn; earth, with its pray from contemplating the felicity mantle of refreshing green, and of this fellow-beings, and can sit down heaven, with its deep, delicious blue darking and repining in his loneliness and its cloudy magnificence, all fill us when all around is joyful, may have with mute but exquisite delight, and | 1.5 moments of strong excitement and 'roifish gratification, but he wants the tion. But in the depth of winter, gonial and social sympathies which when nature lies despoiled of every constitute the charm of a metry
